

Astral Doorways with Dolores Ashcroft-Nowicki

October 2-4, 2015

A workshop hosted by The New Seed Sanctuary

"An Astral Doorway is a strange and wonderful thing. Approach it with the wonder of a child and it will be a delight. Approach it with skepticism and it will respond in kind."

Dolores Ashcroft-Nowicki

Doors, gates, tunnels and openings are fascinating, they offer adventure, excitement, and the opportunity to explore, learn, new acquaintances. In the last 1,000 years we have opened up 99% of our world, there are few places that have not felt the tread of a human foot. So what is left for us to discover?

The obvious answer is Space, and we are making efforts to get out there. But some of us want to explore a different kind of space. The Space Within, Inter-Dimensional Space, the Space the Brain knows and wants to share with us. But to enter those spaces we need Doors, Gateways, and keys to unlock them.

Several years ago Herbie Brennan wrote a book called Astral Doorways, and with his blessing and permission I have borrowed his title for this workshop. There are few people today who know of The Second Road and even fewer willing to show you how to get on to that secret, hidden, and sometimes dangerous road.

We have maps of every country on Earth but there is no map of The Second Road. It changes constantly, new vistas are added, or disappear. The inhabitants are charming, beautiful, helpful, or not. There is no set way to approach them, you must make your own advances and accept the result. This is a world where Faerie and nightmares exist side by side. Where your idea of such things is what you will see. An Astral Doorway is a strange and wonderful thing, approach with the wonder of a child and it will be a delight, approach it with scepticism and it will respond in kind.

The cost of the workshop is $185
